

The diagram illustrates a stylized map of North Africa with a grid overlay. The map is divided into colored regions: yellow for the west and east, tan for the central coastal areas, and brown for the central inland area. A black dot is located in the central brown region. Below the map, a horizontal axis has several red and blue arrows pointing upwards. Each arrow is labeled with a number. A black circle is drawn around the central part of the axis, centered on a black dot. A legend in the bottom right corner identifies the red square as 'Morocco' and the blue square as 'Portugal'.
